

John Duggan

I have watched the free flowing Chehalis River when I lived in Washington State. As dams are coming down across the country, building a dam on the Chehalis River seems a gross waste of public money. The fight will last years before any decision is made and the government should be censured for even proposing this supposed "solution." There are other options; use them.