As a home owner in Centralia, I find the plan to have both promises of providing flood control while maintaining some natural flowing water during non flooding events is too unrealistic. But after hearing more about the project and some of the comments stated during the meeting in Centralia this week, I have to say this project is offering unrealistic promises of protection while accounting for the fish and habitat for other animals. The statement claiming our recent flooding in Lewis County and downriver in Grays Harbor would not have triggered the closure of this dam passage, then it really is not worth the risk to the fish, habitat and to the people who inhabit the Chehalis drainage. I do not support this project and would like more information about the no dam options.
