

Stephanie Snyder

There must be a way to make sure that any action taken doesn't interfere with salmon's run from place of birth to the ocean and back to place of birth. They are an iconic symbol of the PNW, and as such, should be afforded some honor and respect. There must be a way of brain storming to come up with a plan that both helps mitigate flooding but also doesn't impede salmon on their runs.