

Chris Ringlee

We continue to see dams removed in Washington and this dam won't solve the long term problems facing the chehalis.

It will be cheaper in the long run buying out areas that flood and discourage future development in the flood plain.

Destroying one of the most productive wild steelhead spawning areas on a river with pending ESA listing won't work legally, ethically, or scientifically.

Our household opposes any dam.