

Roman Stadtler

This project will have the usual bad effects on the local ecosystem; damaging salmon runs, harming biodiversity, etc. A dam is never the best way to go, not nowadays when we know better and understand more about ecosystems. Losing salmon spawning grounds should always be avoided, since so many other animals, including people, rely on salmon as food and for cultural beliefs.