

Peter Murray

I'm totally opposed to building a dam for flood control. A dam isn't the best way to control flooding. There are better science based methods that exist. However, a dam will destroy valuable habitat and violate cultural and ecological aspects.

Restoring floodplains, creating resilient habitat, and investing in local communities would be a more effective way to manage flooding. $2,000,000,000 is a lot of money to waste on a dam.