

Craig Zora

I'm OPPOSED to constructing a flood retention (FRE) facility and associated temporary reservoir on the Chehalis River, near Pe Ell, Washington. To date, there is no information available about mitigation proposed by or supported by the Tribes that would reduce the unique impacts on Tribal and cultural resources to a level that is less than significant. More detailed studies and review—including identification of specific impacts and mitigation measures and Government-to-Government consultation—should be conducted during the permitting processes, before implementation of the proposed project. Will the tribes be consulted before implementation of the proposed project?
