

Laura Hartman

The priority has to be salmon health. Salmon require flood plains which do not warrant fixing by mega-dams, that we will regret instantly in this era of dam removal! Other methods to encourage groundwater replenishment with expanded beaver induced wetlands would be a free way to get much better, salmon-friendly results. The elaborate, expensive, and disappointing record for mega-dam fish facilities are very well-known. This plan is no breakthrough in sensitive technology. It is folly.