

Cash Hollett

I think that the conversion of coal to gas is a priority for public health and air quality but I do not believe it takes precedence over the availability of energy in the area. If it is possible to convert the plant without changing the reliability and availability of power via the plant then this permit should pass, as I know it is very important for the air quality in the area.