

Gordon Wheat

If we spend the money to convert from coal to gas, this expense will need to be amortized over the life expectancy of a new gas power plant, and we will be saddled with the health consequences of burning fossil fuels for another 40-50 years. This is unacceptable from a health and economic standpoint. We need less fossil fuel energy. There are cheaper and more sustainable alternatives for power generation.