

Anonymous

the power plant is causing MORE greenhouse gases to be produced than it is producing energy. if it has been dormant, or even semi dormant, then it is not going to help any of us especially with all of the pollution it is bringing. Washington is supposed to be the state that is the "climate leader" and having this plant still open is not benefitting us whatsoever. it is just taking a giant step back in what we have done. close the plant.