Eric Seder

I am wondering what happens to property owners like me who currently have lakefront property with essentially no opportunity for public access. Will people now be able to access my property from the estuary? Could I build a fence between my property and the estuary? Does anything happen at the interface between the public and private land?