The full length court claim form should contain some way for multiple houses on different parcels using a single permit exempt well together to list how many properties are served by the well and the legal descriptions of each parcel and that it draws from the single named well. That would be a really helpful thing, then each of the property owners could sign the single claim form but only need to fill out for one well. this is particularly important since a few of the questions ask if the person filling out the form owns the property, but only the person with the well on their property owns it, but the other parcels often have a water use agreement between the parcel owners. For instance, the well is on my property, but two other parcels also share the use of the well on my property. Thanks for making this easier for us.
