

Mary Ellen Smith

I believe that we have a moral obligation to our grandchildren and great grandchildren to provide them with the most climate friendly environment that we can. We must have trucks that are not polluting the air that we breath and to do this we should enact regulations that will force the manufacturers of truck engines to produce zero emission engines. It is a sane and healthy way to help address the air pollution issues caused by diesel trucks.
Thank you.