

Bobbee Murr

I'm your Oregon neighbor, breathing the same air from our shared airshed. When diesel-fueled vehicles pass me in the street, their toxic exhaust aggravates my heart disease. Millions of people of all ages with chronic health problems are forced to breathe this type of exhaust, and those who are healthier are at risk for developing chronic health problems due to carbon-based aerosolized solids and gases.

Please don't cave to Big Oil's pressure, which has dominated politics and the justice system, and has decreased the health and well-being of our communities.
