

Paul Fior

Climate change is a fact of life on earth. Man-made CO₂ pollutants are making a major contribution to the negative impact of climate change by adversely impacting air and water quality across the planet, thereby seriously endangering life on earth as we know it. Fossil fuel burning ICE's, particularly heavy-duty vehicles which burn diesel fuel (or worse, in some vehicles, particularly ocean-going cargo vessels) are a major source of air & water pollution which is causing severe illness and a detriment to the health of humans, all other mammals, birds and marine life. We cannot allow the movement towards cleaner, healthier future of our home planet be derailed by abusive and greedy corporations whose polluting extraction methods combine with their pollution causing products to return to their polluting practices simply because they can bribe their way back to those bad practices via the current careless and thoughtless U.S. executive administration. Don't allow the extraction and fossil fuel corporations to slowly sicken and kill innocent people via their polluting products.

Maintain and improve the better methods science and industry have developed of meeting our energy needs in a clean and efficient manner that protects the earth's environment. It's where we all live and the only home we have.