

William Justis

The soot laden exhaust from diesel powered trucks is causing untold damage to people's lungs, health and quality of life. Fossil fuel burning is also contributing to global warming. These dirty trucks need to be phased out and replaced with clean transportation.