

HOLLY crowley

This is horrible for the large vehicle operators in this state. They do make electric tow trucks, dump trucks and other heavy equipment in electric. If this goes through this will cripple many businesses in this state. The lack of vehicle supply and charging infrastructure, and cost differential with clean diesel alternatives. Plain and simple, technology has simply not progressed enough to produce viable trucks in the heavy-duty space that we require in our industry.