

Jeffrey Parrott

Just because California does it doesn't mean Washington State has to do it. Every little bit of extra expense added to fuel costs drives up the cost of EVERYTHING. You do realize that EVERYTHING is delivered multiple times via TRUCKING? You are pricing people out of the state. Those who can afford it are leaving. Then where is your tax basis coming from. Air quality has improved to the point that emissions testing isn't required any more, yet you keep barking up the climate change tree and the air quality tree. Which is it? You keep mandating ELECTRIC everything, yet not increasing capacity. What happen when the power goes out because of the big storms we get here in the NW. NOTHING WILL BE DELIVERED. This extra money is coming out of YOUR pockets, too. Don't you feel the effects of your own policies in YOUR own pockets?