

Lorraine Hartmann

The earth is being heavily assaulted by carbon and methane emissions such that we are killing its life support systems for all created beings. And there is not the level of urgency being shown, especially in the United States. We need clean vehicles like never before!