

Isaac Andrews

Emission standards are already stringent enough. Further tightening them on trucks with medium to heavy duty engines will increase costs of transportation for food and goods into Washington, which will be passed on to the consumer. I do not support this proposed amendment.