

Sandra Roubal

You are insane to try and get rid of diesels. Electric vehicles, especially big rigs, are a farce. The electrical grid is not robust enough to handle evs. Evs do not work in the cold. Diesels are excellent trucks, how about making them even better? You would destroy our economy and kill jobs and put people out of business, create even more homeless by trying to make everything evs....just for a stupid utopian dream that isn't feasible. How about look at reality. We the people have the freedom to make our own decisions on vehicles. It's not the government's job to take away our choices but to protect our rights. How about read the constitution.