

Melissa Craig

I urge you to act swiftly and decisively to protect our clean vehicle progress. The Trump Administration's rollbacks are harmful to our health, economy, and environment. The Evergreen State must respond with strong state-level incentives for EVs, accelerated clean car and truck commitments, expanded charging infrastructure across the state with an emphasis on frontline and low income communities, and policies that hold polluters accountable.

Strengthening clean vehicle standards in our state won't just help Washingtonians — our leadership will influence national policy and create jobs in clean transportation industries. Please recommend bold, equity-focused strategies to Governor Ferguson and stand firm against Trump's federal backsliding.

We cannot permit billionaires or their cronies to put their wallets before the health of Washingtonians or our environment. The choices made and actions taken at this juncture will set a precedent for other ecologically minded states to follow. Let us set an example of strength and integrity towards our commitment to a healthy populace by supporting the health of our environment.