

Mark Vossler

We really need three things to accelerate the transition to 100% clean transportation: 1) A robust EV charging network so that renters and folks that have long drive requirements can also use EVs. 2) Expansion of electric rail well beyond the Link system. Both commuter and inter-city electric trains are needed. 3) Pedestrian and cyclist safety so that more people walk and bike where it is feasible.