

Carrie Thunell

I completely agree with this plan to make sure Washington can produce and sell zero emission vehicles. I sincerely hope they will be affordable to seniors on a fixed income. We have given up hiking and backpacking due to the outrageous gas prices that Washingtonians must pay. We hike a local park instead. (Squaxin park, about 1.5 miles from home). We totally support this plan to keep Washington number one in protecting the environment and getting affordable zero emission vehicles out there. If we are able to afford one, we shall most certainly want to purchase one. My husband and I are heartily wishing you full steam ahead on this very important plan! We heartily applaud the governor's plan to make zero emission vehicles accessible to more Washingtonians. I know that if there is any way we can afford one, we will buy one. Protecting our environment and breaking our dependance on oil is vital to the future of Washingtonians, and to all who live on this very fragile and imperiled planet.

Mrs. Carrie Thunell.

I heartily applaud the governor's plan to make zero emission vehicles accessible to more Washingtonians. I know that if there is any way we can afford one, we will buy one. Protecting our environment and breaking our dependence on oil is vital to the future of Washingtonians, and to all who live on this very fragile and imperiled planet. I hope this upload. My every attempt to post the comment has failed.