It is vital to change Washington school buses from combustion to electric now. Electric creates no fumes as they pickup, carry and drop off our children. The fumes created by diesel and other carbon fuels literally are deadly fumes. No one should breath even a small amount, especially our vulnerable young people whose lungs are still developing. Of course, besides that harm to them is combined with the harm to our environment and climate. It seems to me that this should be a given. I support ZEVergreen.
