

Marshall A. Boyler

It is well past time to ban all fracking - period. The harmful effects have been well documented and ignored by the very agency that is tasked with preservation of the Delaware River Basin. The big oil companies appear to own our government - not the people of the United States of America, who want pure drinkable, unpolluted water.