If you love your children don't put poison in your children's water! You have heard that the health of our water and air are the health ourselves and our families. It has never been wise to drink from our own piss pots although that would probably be less harmful than putting the poisons in our water basin.

It is American Scientists who are heading the world in scientific breakthroughs in our knowledge of water, its fourth phase. We actually know so little about water and yet it could be the answers to unimaginable human needs. If you are only interested in money it could also be a gold mine for the future. What is apparent from these early discoveries is that water purity is vital and precious, but also more complex than we imagin.

Your grandchildren could one day be proud of their grandfather or grandmother who had wisdom and bravery to stand up and save their water.

We live in a pivotal period of time where people with power can become hero's. Their legacy could be not just leaving a pile of money for someone else to spend, but standing out as great leaders and men of vision.

The choice is yours.
