

Helen Lawman

Fracking can cause so many problems affecting water especially water used in households. but also it can seep into other groundwater's, and into streams and rivers.