

Laura Horowitz

There is no safe way to do fracking. The harms it causes have been documented extensively. Endangering the safety of our drinking water to prop up the fossil fuels industry is suicidal.

The best way to avoid the pollution that results from natural gas operations is to prohibit gas drilling entirely in the river basin. Make the ban total and permanent.

Article I § 27 of our State Constitution guarantees our right to clean air and water. Our water quality must not be degraded. Natural gas activities result in discharges of the myriad of chemicals used in fracking and results in radioactivity downstream.