

Brad Drago

I am not a big fan of fracking, because of how questionable of a method it is to obtain energy. There are many other alternatives that are much easier and less expensive than fracking is, while also being healthier for the environment. As a young adult with my entire future ahead of me, I hope that I am able to have access to clean water when I am older.