

David Neevel

It is essential that under all circumstances, all peoples of the world and for that matter creatures of the world have access to water to live and flourish. If you are in a position to judge, then be in a position to protect the lives of constituents. Water for all is essential.