I'm not a scientist or even a very learned person but everything that I've heard about hydraulic fracturing and the backlash it has to our food and water supplies is frightening. We New Yorkers banned together to keep it out of our state and the Delaware Water basin is an important source of water for all of us... And even the importing and exporting a fracked water to the basin that you're considering allowing is not right.

Like I said I'm not too educated but I do know right from wrong and hydraulic fracturing and all infrastructure associated with it is wrong and threatens our water supply.
