Dear DRBC,

I'd like to share my views on fracking in the Delaware River Basin. I believe that fracking in the Delaware River Basin should be banned for several reasons, the main one being that our water can become contaminated. The fracking fluid that is used to obtain natural gas contains many chemicals that are lethal to the human body. This process will not only ruin drinking water, but it was also harm many animals that call the Delaware River Basin home. The profits that are made from this process do not outweigh the the harmful effects that it will have on our drinking water and the wildlife around this area.

Thanks for your time, Chris
