

Michael Gallagher

I think that before the DRBC allows any fracking, or products of fracking, the energy companies involved should disclose what chemicals (and what concentrations) are in the water that they dump in the water shed. I think they should be forced to drink it, and give it to their kids, for permanent use.