

Henry Berkowitz

Please do not make decisions that make wealthy people wealthier at the cost of degrading the health of everyone else. There are so many negative consequences caused by the fracking industry and I am sure you are aware of them all. There are plenty of upset people informing you of those. What I want you to do is not to only consider the immediate disasters that come with fracking, but the long term ones that rarely get mentioned. Think about the long term effects on our flora and fauna from disrupting streams and fragmenting forests. Those effects are not always so noticeable right away as they can take time to develop to the point that it will become a problem. Also, think about the toxins that we are adding to our aquifers and radioactivity we are adding to our air and streams. Do you not think this is harmful long term? Do something about it and end fracking in the Delaware Basin and everywhere else you can in Pennsylvania.