The Delaware river Basin is important to me and I am grateful you want to ban the fracking in the Basin. However,I have not found in the DRBC regulations a clause as to who will pay for the regulators or the bonds that should be posted in case of a catastrophe or to correct the noted damages. Will the companies that want to import waste from fracking carry appropriate and ample insurance? Will there be corporate posted bond funds using real cost pricing, for the damages caused in processing waste produced fluids. Better for the DRBC to issue a complete ban on the entire process of fracking for fossil fuels including its waste. To maintain the quality of water that our citizens needs, we must keep the pristine quality of the water derived from this precious source, the Delaware River Basin.
