

sharon furlong

Water is the most precious resource we have. doing anything to endanger water for anyone, people, animals, fish, plants, communities, is an abuse of the public trust. we are a free country of people, not indentured servants to corporations. we are not a nation of just consumers and taxpayers and annoying people who just want to drink good water, to fish in it, to swim in it, to sit by its side...to breathe clean air and have food grown in real soil. corporations are dedicated only to themselves and their never ending quest for money and power. this is no way to live. when did this get turned around that this industry, the fossil fuels industry, owned the country, owned the politicians, owned the message about how we need them more than water itself, more than air itself. this is complete malarkey. this is spin doctoring to an abusive, amoral and reprehensible degree. it is intolerable that this industry is allowed to do whatever they want, irregardless of law, of correctness, of conscience. you are the only group who can stop this in our area. you are the only people, through our governors, that can say NO to this increasing insanity. Fracking activities are a danger on so many levels that i cannot even list them all but a few? contaminated and migrating water polluting everything over and above the ground; the flushing up of radioactive substances that have lain dormant for millions of years; potential for earthquakes; the inability of wastewater treatment plants to treat either the water (because of unknown elements contained therein) or the amount (how does 24 million gallons being sent all at once sound like this is do-able??); the infiltration of underground bromides, accidents, explosions, pollution of the air, the loss of needed, pristine water....it goes on and on. say NO to this insanity. send these people packing. look out for US. thank you