

Wallace Pelesasa

I am college student attending Brigham Young University Hawaii. I would also like to share my voice and testimony with the countless others who stand against fracking. It doesn't stop at your local communities. It has and will continue to affect our world. The danger of fracking endangers our very existence as human beings. This step is completely necessary. I urge those in office to make the right decision to support our cause.