Dear Comments,

Think about your children, nephews, nieces, grandchildren, etc., how will they pay because of, YOUR ACTION\S!? WE WILL ALL PAY THE PRICE _THE, \"UN-RICH\", THE 99%. AVE YOU NOT PUT ANY THOUGHT ON HOW THIS IS GOING TO EFFECT YOUR FAMILY DOWN THE ROAD, THEIR CHILDREN? LET\S PUT OUR SENSE TOGETHER AND FIGURE OUT A SOLUTION FOR ALL, 110% NT JUST THE IGNORANT STUPIDIOT 1%. T\S GOING TO EFFECT YOUR FRIENDS CHILDREN, IT\S A WHOLE CASCADE OF DISASTER\S TO COME. ARE YOU TRULY PROUD OF YOURSELF?

I am writing today to voice my strong opposition to the Delaware River Basin Commission\s (DRBC\s) proposed rules to severely restrict---and therefore effectively ban---hydraulic fracturing (\"fracking\") and horizontal drilling within the basin.

The draft proposal seems wholly unreasonable, without basis in evidence or the strong safety record of regional energy development. Public energy policies need to be based on sound science and a practical risk-benefit analysis, not politics and alarmism from activists who want to stop the use of traditional energy resources.

Hydraulic fracturing has taken place for decades and improvements in technology, along with horizontal drilling, has driven an unprecedented energy revolution in our nation. America is no longer heavily dependent on foreign energy sources, thanks in large part to hydraulic fracturing.

The DRBC\s proposed new rules would take our region and nation in the wrong direction. The rules would limit energy development in the region, potentially raising costs for households and businesses. The resurgence in regional manufacturing---supported by affordable energy---could be impacted if other regulatory and state agencies limit or restrict affordable natural gas development.

I strongly urge the Commission to rethink, withdraw, and revise its new energy development rules. Tight oversight and strict regulations of energy development are appropriate. Overreaching, unjustified restrictions are not. Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,

Jessica B
