

George Stradtman

Due to industrial pumping of past decades, the water supply of the Delaware basin is already severely compromised. With millions of people depending on it for drinking water, fracking should be prohibited.