

Barbara Bell-Hawkey

The only reasonable solution to this issue is a COMPLETE and TOTAL BAN on all fracking. Our continued dependence on fossil fuels will kill us all if we don't immediately change how we get and use our energy. All of our time and resources must be focused on ending the use of fossil fuels and embracing more earth-, water-, atmosphere-, and human-friendly sources of energy. If the fossil-fuel industry is pressing for regulations that will allow them to frack, then it's time they were encouraged, by means, either financially or legislatively, to embrace and develop new, more earth-friendly technologies.