

Linda Rossin

The world is suffering droughts everywhere, including areas in our own country. To add more pollution from fracking to our lakes and rivers would be totally irresponsible. We cannot repeal common sense protections for this irreplaceable commodity. There will come a time when water will be more precious than gold. It is the life blood of the earth and without it our civilization is doomed. Lets not rush to get to that point. Keep our clean water standards in tact.