Water is maybe our most precious resource. Water is life. We're removed from that awareness because wherever we (most of us) live, we just turn on the faucet - no big deal. After all, water falls out of the sky, right? But the reality is that many people had to, and still have, to carry their water from a water source, either natural or manmade. Let's evolve BACK to this understanding. Fracking threatens clean water. It's not a good idea.
