

Susan Flyer

Apart from air, water is the most essential resource for life.

It is critical that both air and water are not polluted. Those in positions to make decisions about what should or should not be done with water or air have a responsibility to keep these precious resources as pure and clean as possible. Our futures and the futures of those who follow us depend on it.

Please - do the right thing.