

Charlotte Bolinger

Hydraulic fracturing pollutes our world in at least two ways: The product it produces creates global warming and the way in which it is accessed pollutes our water and our soil.