

Tammy Harkness

The Delaware River Basin is a critical resource for both the large population of people living on the east coast and to the wildlife in the area. We need clean water and land to be preserved much more than we need additional petrochemicals for fuel such as natural gas. It is extremely concerning that we could allow fracking in this area and I respectfully request that no permits be allow for fracking, drilling or transport of natural gas or other similar petrochemicals in this critical area.