

Sharon Mendelson

The Delaware River is far too important a natural feature in the watershed it created to allow possible contamination or degradation by removing or inserting fracking waters. I do not want it to be used for these purposes.