

Marcy Gordon

Hydraulic fracturing is a crime against nature and humanity. Not only does it poison the ecosystem, but because the hazardous chemicals used in the hydraulic fracturing process are considered trade secrets by the companies that use them, human beings that are poisoned by hydro-fracturing chemicals cannot get proper medical attention upon exposures because the companies using this hazardous technology will not provide physicians with any information on the hazardous substances hydro-fracturing victims have been exposed to.

This is not only a major public health hazard, it is destructive of the planet itself. This insane practice must be stopped for the future of this planet and all life on it.