

David Wood

Given the negative human and environmental impact of the fracking process compared to the obvious and increasing benefits of clean, sustainable energy sources, there is no upside to pursuing such a venture.